Visual and Performing Arts

June 14th - August 2nd, 2008

Opening Reception: Saturday, June 14th from 7 - 9pm

Midway Contemporary Art is pleased to announce a summer group exhibition featuring fourteen artists from Interact Center for Visual and Performing Arts. This exhibition was co-organized by Midway and Interact and will take place in Midway's Galleries 1, 2, 3, and 4.

"Dots and Loops (The Conjunction of Intuitive Visions Outside the Margins of the Inside Box)" features artists David Bauman, Donovan Durham, Janice Essick, Nick Flaming, Peder Hagen, Paul Jagolino, Nancy Janes, Mike Kramer, Matt Ringwelski, Hadley Rosenberg, Richard Stolarik, Juanita Umbel, David Wright, and Matthew Zimdars.

The exhibition will provide a glimpse of the activities of Interact Center's Visual Arts Program. Covering a wide range of media, the show will feature works on paper, paintings, ceramics, sculpture and books. For the past 16 years, Interact Center has been an innovator in celebrating diversity through the arts. Founded as a professional theatre company that includes actors with disabilities, in 1996 Interact Center expanded to include the visual arts.

Today, more than 100 visual and performing artists work at the center, located in downtown Minneapolis. Midway's Director, John Rasmussen and Interact Center's Visual Arts Program Director, Welles Emerson have selected work from fourteen of these remarkable artists.

Midway's programming is made possible with the support of: the Boss Foundation, the Harlan Boss Foundation for the Arts, the Bush Foundation, Toby and Mae Dayton, the Dorsey & Whitney Foundation, MAHADH Fund of HRK Foundation, the McKnight Foundation, Minnesota State Arts Board (through an appropriation by the Minnesota State Legislature and a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts), The Peter Norton Family Foundation, Target, the Andy Warhol Foundation for the Visual Arts, and many generous individuals. Special thanks to Accessible Homes LLC for their generous project support.

Regular gallery and library hours: Tuesday through Saturday, 11am to 5pm
